

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Saturday 24 Jul 2010

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Apart from a few sharp showers across eastern parts of England and occasional rain across Scotland, it should be a mostly dry day with sunny spells developing, particularly across southwest England and Wales. It will feel much warmer here, but temperatures will generally be a little above normal for many places. Winds should be light and from the northwest.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:
Mostly cloudy with occasional rain or showers on Monday, especially in northwestern parts of the UK. This rain will spread slowly southeast across the country during Tuesday. Temperatures should remain a little above normal, but feel very warm in southeast England.

(C) Crown Copyright 2010. Published by the Met Office.