

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Sunday 07 May 2017

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Eastern parts of the UK will be chilly in a fresh northerly breeze once again on Monday. Although they will mostly be cloudy, there will also be sunny spells. However, further west the sunshine will predominate, though temperatures will be lower than on Sunday with a fresher feel for all.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Tuesday and Wednesday will stay mostly dry across all parts of the UK with increasing amounts warm sunshine, especially further south. It will also feel noticeably warmer along the east coast, with lighter winds too. However, a rural frost is still likely overnight, especially in the north and west.

(C) Crown Copyright 2017. Published by the Met Office.