Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain is going to spread in across Scotland and Northern Ireland during the early hours, lasting through most of the day. It will gradually start to affect England and Wales from the west, with the best of the weather in southeast England, where it will stay dry until the evening.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

The weekend looks set to be drier and brighter for most, and although Saturday will start rather cloudy and damp, it will become drier and brighter through the day. Sunday will be mostly dry with sunny spells and a risk of the odd shower for some.
