

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Saturday 02 Mar 2013

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Most parts of the country will be fairly cloudy but dry, with west Wales and southwest England seeing the best of any bright or sunny spells. Scotland, Northern Ireland and, perhaps, parts of northern England may see a little drizzle or light rain at times.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Both days will be predominantly dry across the country, with varying amounts of sunshine after patchy mist or fog clears. Generally cold overnight with frost, but temperatures rising to around average for early March through the daytimes. Far western and southwestern areas may see cloud thickening enough for a little light rain on Tuesday evening.

(C) Crown Copyright 2013. Published by the Met Office.