Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a bright start in southeastern England but a weakening band of rain will spread from the northwest through the morning. Some warm sunny intervals should follow for most and winds will ease but isolated showers may develop in central and eastern parts of the country. The northwest of Scotland will remain breezy and showery though.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

A good deal of fine, dry and increasingly warm weather is likely for much of the UK as we head into the weekend. However, northwestern parts may be cloudy at times some wet and breezy conditions are expected here on Saturday.
