Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Wednesday will be very windy with gales continuing for England and Wales, and with frequent squally showers through the morning. These showers will become more isolated through the afternoon, with the wind easing late in the day. Scotland will see lighter winds but will also be showery with some hill snow.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

It will remain very unsettled on Thursday and Friday with showers and longer periods of rain, these accompanied by strong winds at time. Some snow is possible over northern hills, and later on Friday Scotland will see brighter and colder conditions, with scattered snow showers.
