Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain in eastern Britain will return towards central areas, tending to die out as it does so. The brightest weather will be in the far west, although a few showers will bubble up later. It will feel generally warm in light winds, but still rather chilly near some eastern coasts.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Mostly dry on Tuesday and Wednesday with some long sunny spells in most areas, although the outside chance of a shower developing locally. Temperatures are expected to steadily rise in most parts, becoming generally warm, but staying on the cool side along some east coasts.
