

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Tuesday 10 May 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Scattered showers will quickly bubble up across northern and western Britain. Southeast England will have a dry sunny morning. The showers may become heavy in or two places in the north in the afternoon, and perhaps merge together to produce longer spells of rain in Scotland for a time. Elsewhere the showers will die out in the evening.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Sunny intervals across the UK on Thursday, but further showers in over northern and western areas, spreading into other areas later. Friday follows a similar pattern with more frequent, sometimes thundery showers in the northwest, but drier and brighter in the southeast.

(C) Crown Copyright 2011. Published by the Met Office.