Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Snow showers will continue in the north and west on Saturday, but these will gradually ease during the day. For many of us it will be dry and sunny but with a very cold feel once again. The winds will be noticeably lighter than on Friday, especially in the west.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Rain will turn to disruptive snow across central areas on Sunday. It will be wet and very windy in the south, but bright with wintry showers in the north. Most likely wet and windy for the southeast on Monday with some snow possible. Otherwise, cold on Monday with wintry showers.
