Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Friday will be cold and windy across the UK with lying snow and ice in places.
There will be frequent snow showers across the north and west with some showers reaching central areas. Elsewhere, it will be sunny with the odd flurry of snow possible at times.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Saturday will start windy, but the winds will gradually ease. There will be further snow showers, but these steadily becoming less frequent. Sunday will perhaps see persistent or heavy snowfall over central areas with potential for large accumulations. Milder further south with a spell of heavy rain and strong winds followed by showers.
