

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Thursday 07 Jun 2012

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Outbreaks of rain, heavy and persistent in places, affecting much of the UK throughout the day with strong to gale force winds across most of Wales, central and southern England. However, northwest Scotland should remain predominantly dry. Southern counties of England should see some sunshine later in the day, although it will remain windy here.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Rain continuing to edge northwards as winds ease through Saturday leaving it mainly dry with some sunshine for much of Wales and central and southern England, although a few showers are still possible. Further rain will move into southern and western areas overnight into Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2012. Published by the Met Office.