Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Another murky to start to the day for much of the UK, but brightening up for most as low cloud and mist becomes confined to the northeast. Warm in the south, especially with prolonged sunny spells. Some thundery showers are possible in the southwest.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

A dull start to both Friday and Saturday, but warm sunny spells will develop for all but the northeast, with low cloud lingering in the northeast throughout. Scattered thundery showers will affect southern and central parts, with a localised downpour possible, though many areas will avoid the showers and remain dry.
