Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a breezy and cool day across Scotland, with heavy rain gradually easing and moving away to the north. Otherwise, largely dry elsewhere with warm sunny spells developing for most areas. It will feel fresher in the west, but remain very warm again in the southeast.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:

It will be a generally breezy day on Sunday with sunny spells and scattered heavy showers, these most frequent in the west and northwest. However, the southeast will remain mainly dry. A mostly dry to start on Monday for many, but with rain, locally heavy, arriving in the west later.
