

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Tuesday 11 Mar 2014

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Early mist and fog patches in the north of the UK will soon disperse with most places having a dry day with sunny spells and light winds. It will be rather cloudy and cool in southern Britain though, but some sunshine should break through during the afternoon. Overnight, low cloud or fog patches will return, with a frost in places.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

It will stay largely dry and settled with plenty of sunny spells and with light winds it will feel very pleasant in the sunshine. It should be mild by day but cold nights are likely, with patchy fog and frost.

(C) Crown Copyright 2014. Published by the Met Office.