Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a chilly start for some with fog patches lingering for much of the morning in central parts and up through the Vale of York many of us will see a fine day with plenty of sunshine. However it'll turn cloudier in the far northwest at times. Another dry night will follow for most and it'll become chilly once again.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Plenty of fine weather is expected as we head into next week, though possibly becoming cloudier with patchy light rain for northwest Scotland at times. Chilly nights will follow largely sunny days with the odd mist or fog patch forming.
