Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a cloudy start to the day for most some outbreaks of light rain, which are most likely in northern and western areas. It will become brighter through the morning, however, with sunny spells in the afternoon, and just a few light, isolated showers. Further rain will arrive in the northwest during the evening and overnight.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Rain will continue to spread southeastwards through Friday, turning heavy at times, with blustery winds, particularly around hills and coasts. Cooler conditions will follow into northern areas with scattered showers, which may turn heavy and thundery and perhaps wintry over mountains.
