Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be cloudy in northwest on Thursday, with a little rain or sleet edging southwards into northern England through the day. Further wintry showers will affect eastern and southeastern England. Generally drier and brighter in the west. Feeling cold.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Often cloudy in the north on Friday, with light rain or drizzle in places, especially hills. Brighter in the south, but very cold. Largely dry, though a few light snow flurries across southeastern parts. Turning less cold from the north on Saturday, as cloud and patchy light rain spread southwards. Dry with some sunshine in the south, and less windy.
