

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Sunday 02 Jan 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be a cloudy day across southwestern parts, with occasional rain and hill snow, and further wintry showers will also spread across northern and eastern coasts. Elsewhere it will be dry and cold, with some sunshine. Overnight, rain and hill snow will continue in the southwest and also spread across Scotland, but otherwise it will be dry and frosty.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

It will be rather cold and unsettled with outbreaks of rain, sleet and hill snow affecting many areas. However some sunny spells are likely, particularly in the south. Also, southwesterly winds will be brisk at times, particularly across northern parts.

(C) Crown Copyright 2011. Published by the Met Office.