Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It'll be a dry and bright day for many of us. However there'll be some showers in the far north of Scotland at first. Rain will move into the far south-west quickly in the morning and travel slowly eastwards during the day, giving a wet end to the day in the west.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

On Wednesday it'll be dull and damp across Wales and much of England. Elsewhere it'll be dry and bright with some heavy showers. Overnight it'll be windy in the north, with gales likely. After a dry, bright start on Thursday, light rain will travel north during the day.
