

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Tuesday 05 Jan 2010

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A bitterly cold day everywhere with heavy snow clearing from southern England.
Further snow flurries are likely almost anywhere but particularly near eastern coasts and Northern Scotland. Western parts of the UK will see the best of the sunshine but it will be bitterly cold with a strong northeasterly wind.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Some snow is likely to eastern and central parts of England as well as the east coast of Scotland on Thursday. Elsewhere will be dry and sunny but again bitterly cold. By Friday some more general heavy snow is likely for eastern England with other parts very cold and sunny.

(C) Crown Copyright 2010. Published by the Met Office.