

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Wednesday 24 Sep 2014

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
A cloudy start across southern and some eastern parts with outbreaks of rain, these mostly clearing through the morning. Otherwise sunny spells and a few well scattered showers, these mainly in the southeast by the afternoon. Northern parts becoming cloudy and windy overnight, with some rain. Dry with clear periods for England and Wales, and becoming locally chilly.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Some sunshine across southern parts during Thursday morning, but cloudier conditions in the north spreading southwards. Windy with patchy rain in the north and west. Friday, weakening band of rain pushing southeastwards into central parts, with fresher conditions and isolated showers following.

(C) Crown Copyright 2014. Published by the Met Office.