

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Saturday 13 Dec 2008

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Today the eastern side of England and Scotland will have rain, occasionally turning to sleet and snow in places, especially on hills, although strong winds will gradually ease. Further west, drier and brighter, although there will be some showers around and these will be wintry at times. Little change tonight, although frost and fog will form locally.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
On Sunday rain and snow will gradually become confined to eastern Scotland. Elsewhere, icy patches and fog patches will gradually clear to leave sunshine and a few wintry showers. Monday, some frost and fog patches at first but many areas dry and bright.

(C) Crown Copyright 2008. Published by the Met Office.