

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Thursday 02 Sep 2010

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Early mist and fog in low lying areas will clear this morning. Thereafter it will be a fine sunny day for most with the exception being eastern coasts. Here it will tend to be cloudier and East Yorkshire and Lincolnshire may have some light rain. Overnight it will be dry, mostly clear, and cool, with more mist and fog forming.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

The dry and settled weather is set to continue with good spells of sunshine by day and mist and fog, mainly in rural areas, overnight. Cloud amounts may increase in the east at times with some rain on the coast.

(C) Crown Copyright 2010. Published by the Met Office.