++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Eastern and central parts of England and Scotland will be off to a dry and perhaps bright start tomorrow. However, outbreaks of heavy rain will be pushing into western parts of the UK from the off, bringing strong winds too. The rain will eventually reach eastern parts overnight but it will be much lighter by then.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Monday will be cloudy, wet and rather humid, with hill fog in many areas. On Tuesday, another spell of heavy rain will affect some areas, before clearing to leave drier, brighter and fresher conditions into the middle of the week.
