++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Largely dry and bright day for many with sunny spells. However, there will be some showers, but these will become increasingly confined to eastern parts where they could be heavy and locally thunder. Patchy rain will push into Northern Ireland and western Scotland through the afternoon.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
There will be a recovery in temperatures by Thursday with many areas seeing some sunny spells. However, it will be cloudier in the northwest with rain arriving later. A weakening rain-band will move slowly south across northern parts on Friday. To the south, it will be drier with sunny spells developing in the southeast.
