Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Southern England and southern Wales likely to see a dry day tomorrow with some sunshine. Elsewhere, a scattering of showers will develop throughout the day, with the showers turning heavy and blustery across Scotland. Winds for many will be lighter than today, allowing it to feel a little warmer.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Sunday for many will be dry and bright, although southwestern areas will be cloudy with some occasional rain. The rain will then move northeastwards overnight into Monday, with southern areas turning drier and brighter during the day on Monday. In any brightness across the south it will feel warm and humid.
