++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain will linger across Scotland, most persistent in the east. Elsewhere, feeling a little warmer with sunny spells and a scattering of heavy, possibly thunderly showers. These showers easing from the south later, before another band of rain pushes in to the far southwest late in the day.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Rather cool, windy and very unsettled, with heavy rain spreading across the country on Thursday, with the north of Scotland staying dry for longest. A very wet and windy day on Friday, with a risk of gales in the south, but here the rain may clear later in the day.
