Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Friday will start off fairly cloudy and mild across the United Kingdom, with light winds. Rain across Northern Ireland and western parts of Scotland will gradually peter out through the morning. Elsewhere, it will be mostly dry but cloudy, with perhaps the cloud thick enough to bring a few drizzly outbreaks, across some western parts.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

It will stay fairly mild through the weekend, though a rural frost is possible into Saturday morning. Saturday will then be dry, with sunshine across northern England and Northern Ireland, and fairly cloudy elsewhere. Sunday will be cloudy, with some light rain in western peripheries.
