++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Some eastern counties of Britain will see frequent showers through the morning, many of which will be wintry and thundery in nature, but these easing through the day. Cloud thickening across Scotland to bring rain for some through the afternoon, preceded by hill snow. Elsewhere, dry and sunny but cold across all areas, especially in the brisk wind.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Turning wet and windy across all parts on Sunday with heavy rain in places, although it should be somewhat milder than recent days. Rain will clear southern parts through Monday to leave a largely dry and bright day with only scattered showers.
