Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Outbreaks of rain, heavy at times coupled with strengthening winds will progress southeastwards across northern England and Wales, reaching central parts by evening. Brighter weather will follow the rain with scattered showers in Northern Ireland and Scotland. Ahead of the rain there will be some bright spells and a few showers.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Overnight rain will slowly clear the southeast on Saturday while elsewhere it will feel cooler than of late with sunshine and showers, heaviest in the west. Sunday will be drier and brighter after a chilly start with showers confined to the northwest.
