Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a dull and rather damp day on Thursday with some light rain or drizzle moving northwards across eastern areas. Further rain will arrive in the southwest later in the day, but in between this it should be dry elsewhere, perhaps with a little brightness here and there.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

A band of rain will move eastwards across much of the United Kingdom during Friday, introducing a change to a more unsettled spell. This band will eventually clear the east early on Saturday, becoming breezier with showers elsewhere, especially in the west and northwest.
