Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Showery rain, heavy in places, will affect many parts of the U.K. first thing on Wednesday, and it'll be rather cloudy with some hill fog. These conditions will gradually become confined to the northeast of England and Scotland later, whilst drier, brighter and fresher weather follows from the west.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Rain will clear the Northern Isles during Thursday morning, leaving fine conditions for all. There'll be sunny or clear spells and light winds, but it will continue to feel cool and fresh. A few showers are possible in the west on Friday and winds will strengthen. Nights will be chilly.
