Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It'll be a cold and frosty start in the north. Wet and very windy weather will move across the far southwest in the morning, perhaps with some hill snow. It will be a mostly dry day elsewhere, with sunshine and showers, and a chilly night to come.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Rain will slowly move eastwards on Tuesday, giving a wet and breezy day across the west. It'll be dry at first in the east, but it'll turn increasingly cloudy, with outbreaks of rain after dark. More wet and windy weather is likely on Wednesday, with gales over exposed parts of the north.
