

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Sunday 03 Jan 2010

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Remaining cold, with overnight frost severe in some areas. Most southern parts of the U.K. will have a dry and mostly sunny day. Further north increasingly cloudy skies will bring outbreaks of sleet and snow, especially across the north of Scotland, but later spreading south to Northern Ireland and northwest England.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Remaining very cold with hard overnight frosts. Sleet and snow showers will develop more widely on Tuesday and Wednesday, but are likely to be most widespread and frequent over northern and eastern parts of the U.K. where some heavy falls are likely.

(C) Crown Copyright 2010. Published by the Met Office.