

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Wednesday 24 Aug 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Heavy rain will spread northeastwards across parts of England overnight.
Elsewhere becoming largely dry with clear spells once any showers clear western parts during the early hours. The rain will slowly clear the east during the day, but scattered heavy showers will develop from the west, with the best of any dry or bright weather in central parts.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Staying unsettled and rather cool as we head into the weekend with showers breaking out across most parts of the UK. The showers will become heavy, thundery and prolonged at times but may start to ease in the south during Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2011. Published by the Met Office.