Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a very cold and frosty start with freezing fog patches, much of England and Wales will have a dry, cold and bright day, though it will turn somewhat milder and breezy in the far north and far west. A different story for Northern Ireland and Scotland, as here it will be mild, wet and windy, especially in the west.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Wet and windy weather will spread southwards into northern England and Wales on Sunday, while staying dry and breezy to the south and east. Wet and windy in the south on Monday, but sunnier with isolated showers in the north.
