Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
A band of rain will approach from the west bringing cool and breezy weather to northern and western parts. The southeast will be warm and humid with some heavy, thundery downpours but dry and bright for areas in between. Any thunderstorms will fizzle out into the evening with late sunshine elsewhere, though rain may linger in the northwest.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Many places will see plenty of sunshine, particularly in the south. however it will be cloudier and windy in the north with some showers in northwest Scotland. It will turn more settled into Sunday with mostly dry conditions, only the odd shower.
