++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a frosty start for many with some icy patches in the morning and isolated fog. For many it will be a dry and bright day with some winter sunshine. Isolated showers across the north and west will bring snow over higher ground, these easing through the afternoon. Thickening cloud and rain will arrive in the southwest later.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Friday will turn wet and very windy, with snow expected over northern and central areas. Gales and severe gales are likely for western coasts and exposed areas, rain clearing later. Saturday will remain windy with some rain, but somewhat milder.
