

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Tuesday 16 Aug 2016

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Most places will have widespread warm sunshine all day with highest temperatures in southern, central and western parts. It will be breezy in some coastal areas. Cloud and the odd shower or rumble of thunder may occur in Northern Ireland in the evening. The coming night will be clear, dry and fairly cool.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

Tomorrow will again be bright, warm and dry for most of us. Some cloud and showery rain will develop in Northern Ireland and parts of Wales and South West England, perhaps heavy and thundery. Thursday will be warm and sunny again for most.

(C) Crown Copyright 2016. Published by the Met Office.