++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
A band of rain, accompanied by windy conditions, will slowly edge into Northern Ireland and the far west of England and Wales today. Elsewhere it will remain dry, with some bright or sunny intervals, especially across northern Scotland and eastern England. Overnight, the rain will make little eastwards progress, although with fairly extensive cloud cover, it will remain mild.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
The rain in the west will advance slowly into other parts of Wales and southern England on Tuesday, before pushing into northern England and Scotland on Wednesday. Brighter conditions and showers will follow on, and it will remain breezy for many.
