

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Wednesday 08 Mar 2017

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Northern Scotland will be windy with showers. Northern Ireland, north Wales, southern Scotland and northern England will be bright and breezy. Further south, it will be mild with rain, gradually clearing from the Midlands, but lingering near the south coast. Heavy showers will affect Scotland tonight. Other parts will stay dry, mild and breezy, with drizzle in the far south.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Thursday will be sunny but windy in the north. It will be cloudy and mild further south, with lighter winds. Rain may persist in the far south-west. Friday is likely to be windy with rain interspersed with brighter drier spells.

(C) Crown Copyright 2017. Published by the Met Office.