Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Heavy rain will spread east across northern Britain during the morning, lingering across northeast Scotland in the afternoon. It will be brighter further south with sunshine and heavy showers but there should be some fine weather in the east of England. Winds will strengthen through the day, with gales likely in the south.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:

Further blustery showers are likely on Sunday, especially in the west, then persistent rain will spread across southern Britain later. This rain will clear on Monday morning leaving a brighter day for most with plenty of sunshine and much lighter winds.
