

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Tuesday 10 May 2016

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Scotland, Northern Ireland and much of northern England will be sunny, warm and breezy, but it'll be cloudier in the east. The rest of England and Wales will generally be cloudy and wet today, with showers turning heavy or thundery, and this is likely to continue overnight.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Thursday will be sunny and windy across Scotland and Northern Ireland, but with rain in southern parts later. England and Wales will see heavy or thundery showers, but with some sunny spells later in southern England. Friday will be generally fine, but with cooler air moving in from the north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2016. Published by the Met Office.