++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a rather grey start across southern counties any early mist and drizzle will clear with some sunshine breaking through by the afternoon. Further north it will be a crisp and sunny morning with prolonged sunshine. Northern Ireland will fair less well, with more cloud and showery outbreaks. Feeling less cold than recently.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Similar cloudy but mainly dry conditions will continue across much of the UK through Monday and Tuesday, turning slightly milder. It will become breezier later on Tuesday with rain and stronger winds arriving in the north; some heavy outbreaks are expected particularly over the hills.
