Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Aside from some brightness for eastern Scotland and northeast England, much of the UK will have a rather cloudy day on Thursday, with early mist and fog in places and quite extensive hill fog. There will be some patchy drizzle in places, with more persistent rain moving into the northwest of the UK through the afternoon.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

It will become very windy on Friday with scattered, blustery showers, which are likely to be wintry over hills in the north. Saturday will start bright and breezy, and become gradually cloudier and milder from the north through Saturday, with winds slowly easing.
