

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter at 0700 on Monday 07 Aug 2017

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Bright across Scotland and Northern Ireland today with sunshine and showers.
Cloudier elsewhere, with some rain possible at times in the south. However, the far southeast may stay dry with some sunshine. Overnight, rain will continue across southern parts of England and Wales. Elsewhere will be mainly dry with clear spells.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Tuesday will see showers or longer spells of rain across much of England and Wales, which could be heavy. It'll be drier and brighter across Scotland and Northern Ireland though. Southern and eastern England will stay cool and unsettled on Wednesday, but it will be drier and brighter elsewhere.

(C) Crown Copyright 2017. Published by the Met Office.