Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a fairly unsettled day across much of the country with further heavy thundery showers developing quite widely. Some warm sunshine is likely in between times, though it will be generally fresher feeling than on Monday. More persistent rain could return to the southwest later.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Bursts of rain are likely to affect western and northern parts during Wednesday while the southeast should be dry with some sunshine. The wet weather, with a risk of some thundery bursts will spread east to many other areas during the course of Thursday.
