Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Heavy, possibly thundery rain across northeast England and eastern Scotland will gradually pull away northeastwards through the day, although may linger all day across the far northeast of Scotland. Elsewhere, sunshine and showers, the heaviest of which will be across southwest Britain, where there is also a risk of thunder.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Monday will see heavy showers developing across many parts of the UK, again with a risk of thunder. These are likely to be slow moving across Scotland and Northern Ireland. Dry for a time on Tuesday, ahead of another area of rain moving up from the southwest during the day.
