

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Friday 10 Mar 2017

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
There will be early brightness for eastern parts, otherwise it'll be a cloudy but mostly dry picture away from coasts and hills in the north and west, where there will be some mist and fog. However, brightness will develop across parts of Wales, the West Country and northern England and it'll feel mild, especially in the sunshine.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Patchy rain will stall across northern England, Wales and the south-west on Saturday, where it will feel cool. Elsewhere it will be dry and mild with some sunshine. Sunday will see bands of rain moving east, but there'll be some brightness in between.
