Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Monday will be a dry and bright day for most of the UK. However, locally heavy rain is expected for south-western areas of England and Wales, clearing during the morning where it'll be rather cold. Elsewhere, there will be sunny spells and a few showers, possibly heavy at times, but it'll remain windy in the south-west.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
After a chilly start on Tuesday, rain and strong winds will move eastwards through the day affecting most parts. This will clear into Wednesday with sunny spells and showers following, although some rain will possibly persist in the south. It'll remain rather windy throughout.
